

Community Catchment Workshop

Raglan April 23-24

Giant kokopu. Photo: Stephen Moore, Landcare Research

Join the NZ Landcare Trust and partners for this free 2-day community workshop* in Raglan. We'll be looking at the big picture of managing our catchments and the mosaic of social, cultural and environmental components integral to them.

* You are welcome to attend either all or part of the workshop.

Numbers are limited. To register please contact: Monica Peters 07 859 3725 / 021 049 2036
monica.peters@landcare.org.nz

Friday April 23 (1:00 – 5:30pm)

1:00 – 2:20pm

Venue: Te Ahiawa Subdivision, meet at cnr of Wainui and Te Ahiawa Rds
- Stream walk and talk: Native fish and their stream habitats

2:30 – 5:30pm

Venue: Raglan Old School Arts Centre Stewart Street

- Presentations by educators, farmers, community members, scientists on a variety of topics including: Catchment management and restoration, Engaging the wider community, Sustainably farming dairy cows and whitebait
- Panel session with the experts to answer your questions about managing catchments

Friday afternoon tea provided

Saturday April 24

9:00am – 1:00pm

Venue: various. Meet 9:00 at the Harbourcare Nursery, 330 Wainui Road

- This mini tour explores several key Raglan stream restoration sites: the nursery and Wainui stream, a local farm and a leachate treatment site

Saturday BYO Morning tea and lunch. Participants to drive in own vehicles/carpool as group from Nursery

NB: closed shoes recommended, bring raincoat and/ or sunscreen depending on weather conditions

The restored Te Ahiawa stream, one of the workshop sites, courtesy of Raglanland Ltd.

hooked
on fish