

You are invited to celebrate World Soils Day

4.00 - 5.30pm on Monday 5 December

Waikato Museum, Grantham St, Hamilton

All welcome – bring along your family and friends to share in a fun celebration – children are welcome.

See the new Milk Matters: Towards Sustainable Dairying exhibition which includes Dr Peter Singleton's attractive new soil profile monoliths (free entry from 4.00-4.30).

Hear Dr Megan Balks talk about her new book: Celebrating soils, discovering soils and landscapes. (Share in the launch of this richly illustrated book for a general audience).

Touch, taste, and smell a celebratory World Soils Day cake especially made from products of the soil! 😊

Programme: 4.00-4.40 – View the new Milk Matters: Towards Sustainable Dairying exhibition, hands on soil-related activities for children.

4.45-5.15 – Talk in museum Lecture theatre: Celebrating soils and landscapes, Dr Megan Balks, University of Waikato.

5.15 – World Soils Day cake cutting and social time.

Jointly supported by NZ Society of Soil Science, Waikato Museum and the University of Waikato.